PREFACE

Pramāṇavārtikabhāṣya alias Pramāṇavārtikālankāra is a voluminous mature philosophical work by a Buddhist Prajñākaragupta (c 8th Cent A D) It is written in prose-and-verse style It contains 2666 (879+1162+625) verses He very often presents the pūrvapakṣa in the words of opponent himself This is the reason why almost the entire chapter of Nirālambanavāda from Ślokavārtika is quoted by him From this it is clear that all the verses occurring in the Bhāṣya are not from his pen Mahāpaṇḍita Rahulji has noted at least 80 verses which are found in Slokavārtika Over and above them there are verses which are definitely of Kumārila but are not found in his Ślokavārtika They might be from his lost Bṛhaṭṭīkā For instance, tatrāpūrvārthavijñānam (p 21), vipreksyeta hi yo mohāt (p 597) are definitely from Kumārila's Bṛhaṭṭīkā (Refer to Ratnakīrtinibandhāvali p 38, 105, 106) Again, we know that there was a practice among Sanskrit writers to adopt the verses of others with some minor verbal changes which may or may not change the meaning of the original For instance, in Jayanta's Nyāyamañjarī (Kashi Ed pt II p 51) there occurs a verse cikitsādiprayogastu golake yah pravartate, so'yam ādhārasamskāra ādheyasyopakārakah And it is very difficult to have even the idea that it is adopted by Jayanta from Ślokavārtika There its verson is cikitsādiprayogas' ca yo 'dhiṣṭhāne prayujyate, so'pi tasyaiva samskāra ādheyasyopakārakah (Ślokavāo Pratyaksa 45) We are likely to meet with such cases in Prajñākaragupta too So, for the study of this type the indexes of half verses in all Sanskrit Philosophical works will prove very useful and fruitful. There existed no index of the verses of Pramāṇavārtikabhāṣya Hence we have prepared it This will also serve as an aid to the research scholars engaged in critically editing the Sanskrit philosophical texts Moreover, the study of such indexes of half verses can help even to fix up the chronological order of the Sanskrit writers

While preparing this index we have made some corrections or amendments in the printed verses, when we felt that they needed them
